THREE NEW RECORDS ON MASONIC ALLEYS

Locke Toppled Timbers for 132 High Single and Team C Set Marks for Single and Total.

The Masonic bowling alleys resounded with cheers and jeers, applause and laughter, last evening, when all kinds of things happened in the league match between teams C and E. Three new league records in competition for the season were broken. Harry Locke toppled the timber for high single of 132, surpassing Marks' mark of 125, team C touched 434 for high string total in the second stanza and hit 1370 for best three string total. The word was passed around the temple that good scores were being made and toward the close a crowd of rooters were shouting to the team C boys to go over the top for better than 1,400. In the excitement nobody noticed that in the last round the two teams were tied, and some of the bowlers who were ready to go home were called back to bowl another string to see which team should have the final point. In this test team C came through with 89 and team E could get only 82.

WALDRON DENIES REMARKS.

brief, usually either yes or no. The courtroom was crowded.

There was considerable discussion over the question of whether the pamphlet, The Word of the Cross, should be admitted in evidence. On the opening day of the trial District Attorney Bullard offered the pamphlet and Attorney Bacon objected. Then it was arranged that the district attorney indicate the more important passages which he desired. This he did yesterday afternoon. Then Mr. Bacon insisted that if any of the pamphlet went in all of it should go in. Judge Howe thought only the passages indicated should be admitted, but finally admitted it all and everybody seemed satisfied.

This morning the cross-examination of the minister was resumed by District Attorney Bullard. In regard to the pamphlet, The Word of the Cross, several copies of which the respondent said he sold for just enough to pay the cost, and which it is claimed is of an unpatriotic nature, the respondent said he did not receive copies of it until after August because the first time he saw it advertised was in the August, 1917, issue of a Chicago magazine entitled The Christian Workers' Magazine, published by the Moody interests. He identified the time as being August because he had clipped an article from one of the pages. There was considerable discussion over admitting the magazine and the court finally admitted the title, the date and the page containing the advertisement.

Mr. Waldron said he read the pamphlet only casually at the time of giving it out and did not recall the specific statements contained therein until after he read it following his indictment.

He testified that he never refused to have a flag in church. When asked if he did not refuse to have anything to do with the Red Cross and Liberty bond matters he said he did not, but that personally he did not favor bringing up those subjects in the pulpit on Sunday unless the church desired it. He said he had participated in flag raisings and demonstrations of a patriotic nature previous to his trouble in Windsor. He could not recall a single thing that he did between July and the time he resigned that was directly favorable to the Liberty bond sales. He could not recall much conversation with the young men from his church who had enlisted, but said he did not oppose their enlistment, but tried to allay their fears by telling them that probably it would be some time before they would be called and that not more than one out of 10 would go.

On re-direct examination Mr. Bacon referred again to Waldron's talk with Sherman Evans relative to the Kaiser being the fulfillment of the vision in Revelations, and offered in evidence the 13th chapter of Revelations. The court excluded the offer and Mr. Bacon saved an exception, which was one of a large number of exceptions allowed him during the trial.

Four witnesses for the defense were called before the noon recess. They were O. P. Norlund, who was a trustee of the Windsor Baptist church; Miss Alice Chase, organist; Harvey A. Allen, now in the Portsmouth navy yard, and Amos S. Chase, a Windsor insurance agent. It appeared that most of them left the Windsor church at the time Waldron left. Previous to that they were regular attendants. All these witnesses denied ever having heard Waldron make the specific remarks charged against him by the government.

Thousands of Tons of Bituminous Coal Found in Williamstown.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Jan. 11.—Five thousand tons of bituminous coal was reported found beneath an abandoned trestle in the yards of the Boston & Maine railroad here yesterday by engineers employed in making a survey of the road's resources. How long the coal has been there nobody seems to know, but it is all coal and good coal at that.

Many years ago Williamstown was a railroad center and a coaling station was located there. The yard was abandoned, but the coal was not removed. Engineers who found the coal believe that by digging down below the surface of the ground they will find at least 2,000 more tons than appear on the surface. If this proves to be so the Boston & Maine is the possessor of one of the 7,000 tons of excellent coal. It is of much better quality than any now obtainable.
